GAMEWEEK 4

Introduction

On the 10th Anniversary of the game I did a preview of the forthcoming season in which I previewed all 160 managers each had a page with the information of when they had joined the game and how many seasons they had been taking part, their fixtures for their super20 league were also published. The page also showed their complete history in all competitions and highlighted the honours that have won in the game. Also showed their statistics from the previous season average score highest gameweek score etc. Then the FC Expert predicted where he / she thought they would finish in their division that season and gave them a rating for their time in the FC game.

In recent seasons I have tried to reproduce similar pre-season previews but have always been thwarted, to do a preview like this really requires everyone to sign up to the game with a decent amount of time to spare. In fact, I have started to pen several pre-season previews since then with few being published.

The difficulty comes in doing a prediction for a Super20 league and then that manager dropping out of the game but not informing me until the last minute, I will have penned a few lines about the manager and the FC Expert (yes it is not me) has predicted the whole outcome of that division with the manager in it, now he has withdrawn another manager has received either a lucky survival or lucky promotion, is not just case of the FC Expert saying they will finish in the same place as the manager who withdrew.

With all the editing that is involved with the game starting being structured the previews have been shelved sometimes many pages have been written but discarded due to the amount of late drop outs.

I think the previews and articles about the Competitions and the FC World editions help to separate Fantasy Challenge from other Fantasy Games so with that in mind I spoke to the FC Expert and asked him / she if he / she would do a prediction for every manager as to where he / she thinks they will finish. The FC Expert did mention to me that he / She had come up with a formula for doing the Super20 League predictions and assures me that the predictions on the following pages have not been influenced by the first four gameweeks of the season.

The FC World is also hoping to recreate the coverage of the FC Cup of two seasons ago with selected matches from each round getting match reports. Once more FC World will pick a single manager and follow him or her through the whole competition with coverage transfer to the manager that beats them if they are unsuccessful in gang all the way.

This early Edition of the FC World also has some very important news regarding the FC Cup and the Qualifying Round. Please take a look at the end of the Edition.

I hope you enjoy the late season Preview which takes advantage of the International Break it is not as comprehensive as I would like but you can all see where the FC Expert has predicted you will finish your Super20 League campaign this season. You can see the form of yourself and fellow managers over the last four seasons.
